

Asian Institute of Low Carbon Design 2019 International Student Design Competition

REboot the City

Contents of the competition

The NPO Asian Institute of Low Carbon Design (AILCD) is pleased to invite students from all over the world to take part in the 9th AILCD International Student Design Competition.

The theme of this year is “Less is MOji – REboot the City”.

The competition addresses the problem of urban shrinkage in the Mojiko area in Kitakyushu. The competition asks the students to re-design the urban landscape and to make a proposal for a low carbon urban project within this area. Urban shrinkage should be considered as a real problem for targeted area and the city of Kitakyushu.

Competition Site

Mojiko area, in the east of Kitakyushu (Japan)

Organizer
