Competition is held on 4 nominations:

Participants can present 1 Entry in each nomination. Each Entry can be presented by 1 sheet or as a series of (up to 5) sheets united by the same theme and graphic technique.

Competition Stages

- The first stage takes place in an online format: after the publication of all applications that have passed moderation, the jury reviews the materials uploaded by the participants in electronic form to the competition website. Each member of the jury notes and at the same time evaluates the best works, in his opinion, from 6 to 15 (depending on the total number of applications) entries on a 10-point scale. From the works marked by at least one member of the jury, a long list is formed.
- About 40 works with the highest number of points go to the second stage, and the authors are invited to send the originals or, in exceptional cases, reproductions of the drawings for viewing by the Jury. In the second stage, the Jury considers the originals of the drawings and determines the winners in each nomination.

During the competition an online vote will also be held. This will allow visitors to the competition website to support entries which take their fancy, but will have no effect on the results of the voting by the competition Jury.

Awards

- Winners of the Contest receive Diplomas, valuable prizes and gifts from the Organizers and Partners of the Contest.
- The Winner in the Drawing Modern Architecture Nomination will receive a Special prize from the Sergei Tchoban Foundation – Museum for Architectural Drawing in Berlin.
- In any of the nominations a special prize can be awarded from the chief architect of Moscow, Sergey Kuznetsov.
- The winner of the website visitors online voting receives an incentive prize and a diploma from the organizers of the competition.
